

LAW in ZAMBIA

Muna Ndulo (ed)

This book contains a collection of essays written on various aspects of law in Zambia. It is a succinct exposition of the various aspects of Zambian law considered. Throughout the book the contributors are concerned to discuss Zambian law as it exists and to point out its weaknesses so that it can be improved and be able to contribute to the development and/or improve the delivery of justice in the country. All the chapters in the book are written by outstanding scholars; all of whom have engaged in the research or the teaching of law at the University of Zambia at some stage in their academic careers.

The editor, Muna Ndulo, is a graduate of the University of Zambia (LLB), Harvard University (LLM), and Trinity College, Oxford University (D.Phil). He is a Professor of law at the University of Zambia. He has also taught law at Cornell Law School in the United States of America where he was a visiting professor in 1983/84 academic year.

The cover photograph has been reproduced by kind permission of The Sunday Times Magazine.

EAST AFRICAN PUBLISHING HOUSE